

A look into a Berlin corner

The intention of this article is to share an exercise in observing a modern piece of architecture from contemporary leading architects of the international scene