

The reflection of architecture in the physical body of the human being

An approach to consciously experiencing architectural qualities through unbiased observation